Wesleyan Alumnae to Revive Tree Planting

Dedication to precede Alumnae Council Meeting

WHEN the Alumnae Council meets on March 10, it will participate in the dedication of 2 dozen young magnolia and 18 oak trees on the Rivoli campus facing Forsyth Road.

The planting of these trees revives an arbor day custom which was initiated 21 years ago when alumnae and friends of the College, as well as clubs and classes, presented many of the trees and shrubs which still beautify the campus. On that first Arbor Day Octavia (Burden) Stewart served as chairman. She is still serving in 1955 as consultant to the campus beautiful committee headed by Elizabeth (Loyall) Woods. A number of individual alumnae are assisting the Alumnae Association in making possible the necessary grading and in purchasing the nursery stock.

The dedication of the trees in the form of a short pageant is set for 2:00 p.m. in front of Candler Memorial Library. All alumnae, friends and benefactors of the College are urged to be present and share the thrill of this promise of beauty for the future. The program is as follows:

11:00 a.m. Board of Managers Meeting
(Alumnae Office)
12:30 p.m. Lunch for Board Members and out-of-town alumnae and Trustees
(W. D. Anderson Dining Room)
2:00 p.m. Dedication of Trees and Pageant
(In Front of Candler Memorial Library)
2:30 p.m. Alumnae Council Meeting
(Parlors—Persons Building)
4:00 p.m.—Coke Party—Student Center

The new slate of National officers to be presented by the Nominating Committee will be one point of business at the Council Meeting.

It will be a full day of alumnae activity. The senior class has been invited to participate in the Arbor Day along with the alumnae and they are furnishing the tree to be planted in front of the Library. The beauty and talent of the students will add to the interest of the pageant.

Due to the fact the dining room is filled to capacity, only alumnae from out of town coming for the Dedication and Council meeting may make reservation for lunch. If you plan to arrive in time for luncheon at 12:30 p.m., please make reservation by mailing in your check for .85c to The Alumnae Office by March 5.

Plan to be with us Thursday, March 10.

THE MOST UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL!

A much reduced version of what Dr. Gin found out about English Majors

LAST summer at the request of the Alumnae Editor I asked some questions of 100 English majors taken as samples from my students of the last quarter century. About half of them answered with a total of nearly 30,000 words. Does this fact explain why I had to sample? From these I copied with the ancient Corona 12,000 words of quotable quotes. Later I reduced these to 6,000 words. Now this article goes to the Alumnae Secretary for a major operation. And I, who have often written Wordy! Cut! on student themes, find I must be subjected to the same operation—"the most unkindest cut of all." And so, beloved student, if the best things you wrote are not included, "never shake your gory locks at me and say I did it." I assure you that I treasure your letter and I have placed your thoughts "within the book and volume of my brain unmixed with baser matter." Seriously and appreciatively, your letters remain as the conversations of friends. Again and again, I'll renew those conversations by re-reading your words.

What have you been doing? a job?

A Third Are Teaching

Yes, English majors have been doing many jobs. According to their answers over a third have been teaching. Some of them, like Patsy Ann Davison '54 in high school work at Marietta, Ga., are just beginning to teach; others, like Sally Jones Pafford '34, who has a family of one college professor and two girls, are returning to the classroom. Some of my student assistants have proved to be veterans. Mary Dozier '35 has taught over 2000 pupils in Bibb County; Sarah Ann White '43 after teaching playground the first year "to a thousand children from 7 to 16" began her work with second graders and "found a delight in teaching the very young . . . so eager to learn" and so full of "creativity."

Next in number are secretarial and office workers. The usual training has been a course in shorthand and typing ("Harder to me," says Ida Stephens Williams '40, "than Latin or Shakespeare"); however, Sarah Smith '47, a secretary, says that her English courses have been most useful because they have helped her to understand people. Sometimes more elaborate training has been taken. For example, Anne Hyer Smith '42 graduated with distinction from Emory School of Law; now staff assistant with the Southern Bell Co., she has the job of analyzing and distributing state laws affecting operations of the company. Usually the girl likes the job, and vice versa, as Alda Alexander Harper '44 says of her work as personnel officer at Robins Air Force Base.

Great American Novel Soon

A fair sprinkling of English majors have made writing their profession. There have been occasional jobs—Jean Thrasher '54 has worked during the summer with the Atlanta Constitution; Betsy Hopkins Lochridge '49 has done features for this paper; and Adelaide Wallace Ponder '46 has done for J. P. Allen's "those funny little fashion ads that nobody ever reads except buyers and proof readers." Betty Thompson '47 has been the professional writer: "For the past four years (since leaving a public relations job at Wesleyan in 1949) I have been employed at the Methodist Board of Missions as the publicist for national missions. I've traveled across the country a couple of times a year writing about missionary doctors in the Smoky Mountains, Indians, settlement houses in city slums for Negroes, Spanish-speaking and economically depressed whites, etc. I do features for World Outlook and Christian Advocate and lots of releases for the secular and church press." Ande Davis Bottorff '42 began with department store advertising; then worked as a reporter, later as feature writer for the Wall Street Journal, "doing stories on everything under the sun from the use of human blood as a strategic war material to peanut growing in Georgia. This job came to an end when I married the managing editor." (All's well that ends well. And thank you, Ande, for bringing him round to see me.)

Though many have written enough to fill several books, no major admits to having had her own book published. Eleanor Hoyt Dabney '45 has collaborated in getting up a book, Youth Looking to Jesus, a series of worship programs for young people (useful and inspiring too). But most of the writing has been occasional, like Marian Morris Rogers' ('51) society news for the Cartersville paper, Sarah Smith's ('47) skits for the annual choir banquet. Hazel Birch Harrison '37 was shockingly delighted to win three of the four poetry awards of the Macon Writers' Club. And Betty

Thompson '47 and Tom Wolfe continue their mutual attraction. "My essay on Tom Wolfe," says Betty "is the final one in the book The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe, Harvard University Press, which includes Robert Penn Warren, Canby, Benet, and others. The Herald Tribune called me 'delightfully restrained and ironic,' which pleased me since that's what I'm not and would like to be." But whether poems, criticisms, devotionals, or novels, the writing goes on. Betsy Hopkins Lochridge '49 says, "Knowing all sorts of people and living in all kinds of neighborhoods have made my Hell's-a-popping novel seem hardly worth the paper it was written on. On my 25th birthday I threw it away and started all over again—this time on something I believed important . . . the Macmillan editor here . . . said it was extraordinarily fine . . . many more chapters are to be done . . . a year should see it completed." (Betsy has promised to dedicate all the respectable chapters to Dr. Gin.) So the story goes. We are expecting the great American novel soon.

Social Workers

Just as popular as writing has been social work. Here I must mention Eleanor McCary Tarleton '40, a medical technologist, who was a case worker with the Department of Public Welfare; Eugenia Davis Ash '41, who did child welfare work for several years; and Harriet Branan Meier '43, who could write a work in two volumes—Vol. I "Doing Social Work while Your Husband is in the Army," Vol. II "Doing Social Work while Your Husband Gets His Engineering Degree."

The variety of jobs can be demonstrated by these professional workers. Jo Ann

Dr. Gin at his Corona

Russell Campbell '50 works as editorial assistant on Methodist Sunday School literature. Elizabeth Mosely Wilson '35, the business woman, runs an insurance agency and looks after the family's farming operations. Suzanne McCowen '52 is bridal consultant at Maier and Berkele Jewelers. "Yes we have a King Richard silver pattern but no King Lear!" Finally, Mary Euyang Loh '46 (How well I remember Mary lovingly cradling in her arms a Shakespeare test marked "B"), is with the Voice of America in New York as special events officer and script writer for the Chinese division.

Community Service

What community service have you done? What have you done with your English Major in the community? Well, there comes a tide in the affairs of women and English majors (strongest among the classes 1930 to 1945) when they heed the call of PTA. They serve on the board (Virginia Townsend Munford '32) or they become president (Martha Ellen Gaines Cash '34). Emily Boswell Murphey '36 is not only president of the Eastern High School PTA at Louisville but is Parent-Education Chairman of Jefferson county, "a job which has a goal of helping all the 38 county schools to form child study groups."

And, of course, the scouts are marching in full uniformed-and-badged regalia—cub scouts, brownies, boy scouts, girl scouts. Always there is the woman behind the man behind the boy behind the skinned knee and the burnt potato.

Then there are the Junior Leaguers (Ida Stephens Williams '40, Sarah Curry Jones '48, and Ande Davis Bottorff '42), the Garden Clubbers, the Executives, the Woman's Clubbers, the Antique Clubbers (no names mentioned), the AAUW's, the League of Women Voters, and the politicians. Even the sedately statuesque Alice Burrowes Ritter '42 admits, "I've left the Dixie fold as far as politics is concerned—joined the 'Citizens for Eisenhower'."

The most frequent and continual service is that given the church by the Wesleyan graduate. Teacher in the Sunday School (Martha Rumble Pirkle '46), Superintendent of a department (Blanche Wannamaker Watts '32), Spiritual Life Chairman (Julia Carreker Mathias '49), Organist (Martha Ellen Gaines Cash '34), President of Women of the Church (Eleanor Hoyt Dabney '45)—these are some of the many jobs womanned by English majors. Summarizing in the words of Mary Felton Paulk '32, one might say: My English major "has helped me fill places in the cultural, religious, and educational life of our town."

Any hobbies? Yes, but cut by the Alumnae Secretary!

Have you had a trip? "No, but we've traveled all over the country." Why?

"The war—you know. Just keeping up with the husband." These are the usual answers. Nobody has had time for a trip because she's been so busy traveling. Take just as an example during World War II: Eleanor McCary Tarleton '40 beats a path between Boston and Key West, and her bright son attends five schools before finishing the first grade. Ever since the War travel continues. Hap Loeb Feeney '47 and her baby are joining her husband, an Air Force Captain, in Japan for a three-year tour. Sarah Curry Jones '48 went with her husband to Guam. "Both of us loved the tropics, hardships and all. . . . Our little girl Sallie Brock was born in Guam. . . . Buff brought us back to the hut when she was four days old. There were no nurses, no help at all; but we survived." (And so did Sallie Brock.) Added to the war changes have been those brought about by business assignments. "Since this is the seventh town we've lived in during our eight years of marriage," carols Marybelle Morris Swift '46 from Mockingbird Lane. "we are more than ready to settle down."

Raising a Family

A family? Most emphatically that is what Wesleyan English majors have been doing. (Please note this condensation of 30 letters written about 67 children is like all poetic attempts, suggestive not complete. The Alumnae Editor is responsible for the omission of any child's picture or name!)

Several generalizations can be made about the Wesleyanne's children. First, from all indications, each Wesleyan mother has 2.23 children—a statement which may bring many arguments as to which one is the 23/100 child. Why not settle the argument by saying the Baby of Superabundant Energy is the 1.23 child?

Second, they are according to parental admission, distinct improvements over their mothers. Third, Wesleyan mothers of the '32 to '36 classes are rearing quite a crop of Wesleyannes. Out of those who plan for their girls to come to Wesleyan—Mary Felton Paulk '32, Margaret Cantrell Isaacs '33, Martha Ellen Gaines Cash '34, Mary Lyles Aiken Knox '34, Emily Boswell Murphey '36, Emily McGee Peddy '40, Adelaide Wallace Ponder '46, Dottie Anne Smith Smith '48—Ida Stephens Williams '40 takes first place: "I hope all four of our daughters will go to Wesleyan." But the most loyal remark is one from Margaret Turner Beaty '38: "My only regret is that Cathy and Diane won't have Dr. Gin in the curriculum! Or can you hold out 17 more years for them?" Impossible! Dr. Gin is not eternal although his lectures may have seemed so.

News From The Faculty

On Campus and On Leave

Dean S. L. Akers in December attended the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held in Louisville, Ky. Dean Akers was elected to a two-year term on the executive board of the Southern Association of Women's Colleges, a branch of the former Association.

Carl Bennett, who is on leave and is studying at the Emory University Institute of Liberal Arts towards his Ph.D., writes the Alumnae Office in December as follows: "I had not realized how much I'd missed the alumnae magazine until I saw Bonnie Jo Gardner's ('54) copy of the latest issue—the one with the hilarious letter furnished by Dr. Gin—nor how newsy the magazine really is until I'd been away these three months.

"Atlanta is alive with Wesleyan alumnae. I see them everywhere I go—on the Emory campus and in the Christmas crowds downtown. Today it was Kate (Haywood) Robinson ('49) and her lovely daughter, Sarah. Kate's husband is finishing his doctorate in chemistry; they plan soon to move to Tennessee where he will join Tennessee Eastman.

"Yesterday I saw Billie Daniel ('54) on a shoppers' bus. She has a degree from U.N.C. and is looking for a job in Atlanta. I'm sure you keep up with Betty Thompson ('47). She has another article in the latest Motive magazine. Dorothy Thom was back at Emory recently to complete her orals and qualify for the Master's degree in Spanish.

"Having the good fortune to share an office with Prof. Blair Rouse of Emory's Department of English, I was present the other day when a student sought permission to quote from Eunice Thomson's thesis on Edna St. Vincent Millay. Later Dr. Rouse told me that Eunice ('25) was an exceptionally fine scholar when here.

"The Bennetts are all happily situated, with the three girls in school, Margaret working in the Medical School library, and me adjusting satisfactorily to 'the other side of the desk'. By the way, 'Mudville,' the housing area where we live, is inhabited by many former Wesleyannes, including our next-door neighbor Dorothy (Wilkin) Repass ('45) whose four girls play constantly with our three, and around the corner, Marijean (Allsopp) Bacon ('47) who was one of my students a few years ago. She has a boy and a girl. Regards to all at Wesleyan."

The Gates to Wesleyan's Future

THESE gates symbolize our priceless past, our unique heritage, and our opportunities of tomorrow. Many of Wesleyan's loyal, faithful daughters have expressed their desire to help "share and shape Wesleyan's future" by aiding outstanding students to come through these portals.

If only a larger percentage of our Wesleyanians wanted to share this experience!

We are grateful to the alumnae who are helping by serving as Class Fund agents and to the alumnae who have already made a contribution to the 1954-55 Loyalty Fund. We want to honor both groups and thank them again. The names of the Fund Agents for each class will be found heading their Class Notes. We list below the alumnae who have contributed to the Loyalty Fund from September 1, 1954 through January 22:

Take A Look At Part of Your Investment !

Carolyn Gleaton, '55, Spartanburg, S. C., a liberal arts music major, is the newly elected president of C.G.A. She was elected in October by student vote to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Carolyn received Semester Honors both semesters during her freshman, sophomore and junior years and also Sophomore Honors. She was president of her sophomore class and house president of Banks Hall her junior year. Carolyn served on the senate for four years and on the Y Cabinet for one. She is co-captain of the senior soccer team.

Bobbie (Owen) Taylor, '55, of Greenville, S. C., a recreation major, was elected in December as Miss Wesleyan of 1954-55 and was chosen for qualities of character, scholarship, interest and participation in campus activities. In October she was elected by the students to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Bobbie received Semester Honors both semesters her freshman and sophomore years and one semester of her junior year; also Sophomore Honors. She is past president of C. G. A. and served as its secretary and treasurer her junior and sophomore years. She has been on the soccer and swimming teams for three years. She also belonged to the French Club, Hyper Club and Music Club.

Gayle (Attaway) Findlay, '55 of Macon, Ga., formerly of Dublin, is a speech major. She was elected in October one of the senior Superlatives to be featured in the '55 Vetteropt. She received Semester Honors both semesters during her freshman, sophomore and junior years; received Sophomore Honors; and the Junior Class Honor Scholarship in speech. Gayle was the editor of the Fine Arts staff of the Town and Country, was a junior marshal, and is literary editor of the Vetteropt. She is a scribe and served on the staff of the Wesleyan. Gayle was president of the Tennis Club the first of the year.

Phyllis Clough, '55, Chattanooga, Tenn., a piano major, received Semester Honors both semesters last year. In October of this year she was elected by student vote to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. She was secretary of her class her freshman and sophomore years and has been active on the Y cabinet, serving as freshman representative, secretary, and vice-president. She is now a member of the cabinet in the capacity of Chairman of Personal and Campus Affairs.

Rosalie Voigt, '56, Birmingham, Ala., a science major, plans to be a medical missionary. She received Semester Honors both semesters during her freshman and sophomore years, as well as Sophomore Honors. She is president of the Crucible Club and chairman of the race relations committee of the Y on the campus.

Carolyn Freund, '56, of Lantana, Fla., an English major, received Semester Honors both semesters during her freshman and sophomore years, as well as Sophomore Honors. She is Associate Editor of the Vetteropt and a member of the Junior Soccer team.

Carole Broadwell, '55 of Atlanta, Ga., a ceramics major, was elected one of the senior superlatives to be featured in '55 Vetteropt. She received Semester Honors the last semesters of her freshman and sophomore years and both semesters her junior year. She also received the Class Honor Scholarship in Art her junior year and was a junior marshal. Carole was secretary of AA her junior year and is publicity chairman this year. She is on the Town & Country staff and was Art Editor on the Fine Arts staff. She also served on the Social Standards board her junior year. She has done some art work for the Alumnae Office in connection with the Loyalty Fund mailings.

Jane McCain, '55, from Starkville, Miss., a radio-journalism major, was elected in October one of the senior superlatives to be featured in the '55 Vetteropt. She received Semester Honors both semesters her freshman, sophomore and junior years, as well as Sophomore Honors, and served as junior marshal. Jane is editor of Town & Country and last year was elected president of her junior class but resigned to serve as T&C associate editor. She was stunt chairman her sophomore year and is now a member of senior stunt committee. She has been a member of the Senate and International Relations Club.

Ilse Gronostay, '57, one of the displaced persons from Germany, before coming to Wesleyan studied in Thomson, Ga., and lived in the home of Mr. Maxwell, school superintendent. He was so impressed with her and her desire to study that he is also helping to further her education. Ilse is very popular on the campus and is a member of the Fine Arts Club and International Relations Club.

Ann Shearouse, '55, Adel, Ga., an elementary education major, was elected to the office of vice president of C.G.A. before she returned from Savannah where she was practice teaching. Immediately following Thanksgiving she took over this office left vacant when Carolyn Gleaton became president. Anne was secretary of C.G.A. last year and was elected business manager of Town & Country, but she resigned this latter post to accept her new office. She has been a member of Senate, Glee Club and the French Club.

Your Investment In Education Through

THE 1953-54 LOYALTY FUND

The students described on page 6 are only a few of the outstanding girls helped with your money paid into the Wesleyan Alumnae Loyalty Fund for 1953-54. The alumnae first listed below gave individual scholarships, and for them we are deeply grateful. May others see their way clear to do this in the future.

Next are listed the scholarships from organizations and endowed funds which provide scholarships as income is available. You will notice many of these endowed funds are bequeathed to the College or given in memory of someone.

But many of the students receiving scholarship aid are getting theirs from the General Alumnae Loyalty Fund made up of hundreds of smaller gifts. For these gifts we are very grateful too. The A.D. Pi and Phi Mu Scholarships, although given by the Grand Councils of these organizations, number alumnae among their contributors.

The Dickerson Moore Scholarships, given by Marion (Cook) Murphey in memory of her grandfather, were awarded to Adele Burgin of Macon, Carolyn Eaddy of Columbia, S. C., and Rosalie Voight of Birmingham, Ala.

The Tappan Scholarship in memory of the parents of Bessie (Tappan) Farris was awarded to Mary Tappan of Dunwoody, Ga.

The Scholarship honoring Lula Johnson) Comer given by an anonymous alumna went to Miss Lula's granddaughter, Betsy Comer of Macon.

The John Gilmore Memorial Scholarship, given by Jennie (Loyall) Anderson was awarded to Carolyn Sims of Atlanta.

The Tommie Louise Turner Craft Memorial Scholarship, given by her husband, is held by Jimmy Ruth Erskine of Anderson, S. C.

The Loula Evans Jones Memorial Scholarship, given by her husband, Col. R. O. Jones of Newnan, went to Elizabeth Cauthen of Washington, Ga.

The Ruth Kasey Yost Scholarship honoring Dr. Walter K. Green, former dean, was awarded to Jane McCain of Starkville, Miss.

The Ruth Benedict Watson Scholarship went to Phyllis Clough of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

The Eloise Ainsworth Scholarship, given by Hattie (Saussy) Saussy in memory of Bishop Ainsworth's little daughter, was awarded to Sandra Sievers of Savannah, Ga.

The Annie Cloud Bass Scholarship went to Carole Broadwell of Atlanta.

The Sara Arenson Riklin Scholarship, given for the first time this year, was awarded to Gayle (Attaway) Findlay of Macon.

The D. Abbott Turner Scholarship, given in honor of his three Wesleyan daughters, went to Henrienne Gaskins of Griffin, Ga.

The Evelyn Wright Banks Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Carolyn Gleaton of Spartanburg, S. C.

The Beulah Smith Jelks Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Judy Fuller of Winter Park, Fla.

The Dorothy Blount Lamar Scholarship, given by this alumna, was awarded to Rebecca Duncan of Anderson, S. C.

The Julia Munroe Woodward Scholarship, given by this alumna in memory of ship, given by this alumna in memory of Dr. Silas Johnson, went to Carolyn Freund of Lantana, Fla.

The Class of 1904 Golden Anniversary Scholarship was awarded to Jane Maxwell of Avon Park, Fla.

The Class of 1929 Silver Anniversary Scholarship went to Medra Ann Lott of Carrollton, Ga.

The Phi Delta Phi Scholarship, given by this honor society, went to Joan Shapiro of Miami, Fla.

The Zeta Tau Alpha Scholarship went to Julia Stillwell of Macon, Ga.

The Phi Mu Scholarship, given each year by the Grand Council of the organization, is held by Barbara Jackson of Miami, Fla.

The A.D. Phi Scholarship, given each year by the Grand Council of the organization went to Halcyon Bell of Shellman, Ga.

The Atlanta Alumnae Endowed Scholarship was awarded to Helen Stowers of Atlanta.

The Macon Alumnae Club Scholarships went to Katherine Middlebrooks and Mary Cooper, both of Macon.

The Class of 1948 Endowed Scholarship is held by Elizabeth Hodgins of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Class of 1949 Endowed Scholarship went to Jane Howard of Hollywood Fla.

The Class of 1950 Endowed Scholarship is held by Nancy Howard of Hollywood, Fla.

The Class of 1951 Endowed Scholarship was awarded to Carole Kelley of Ft. Pierce, Fla.

The Class of 1952 Endowed Scholarship is held by Sara Kuhn of Ft. Pierce, Fla.

The Nonie Acree Quillian Foreign Student Endowed Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Ilse Gronostay of Germany and Thomson, Ga.

The Maria (Weaver) Burks Endowed Scholarship, given by E. Ling (Soong) Kung, is held by Vivian Yu of Formosa.

The Pauline Logan Findlay Scholarship, provided for in the bequest of Margaret McEvoy of Macon, went to Mary Jane Atkinson of Macon and Nancy McCook of Lizella.

The DuPont Guerry Endowed Scholarship, given by Eling (Soong) Kung in memory of the late President Guerry, went to Ann Stewart of Macon.

The Studstill Endowed Scholarship Fund, given in memory of Beth (Studstill) Nelson by her parents, provided scholarships for Barbara Embler and Mary Kathryn Kientz both of West Palm Beach, Fla., and for Sally Lexow of Hollywood, Fla.

The Wimberly-Mathews-Rhodes Endowed Scholarship, given by the late Mary (Mathews) Rhodes, went to Susan Stan-krauff of Miami, Fla.

The Julia Mathews Parker Scholarship, given by the late Ella (Parker) Leonard in memory of her mother, was awarded to Carolyn McGill of Lizella, Ga.

The Ada Frances Hardeman Anderson Endowed Scholarship, given in memory of this alumna by the friends of Dr. John R. Anderson, her son, went to Nancy McClellan of Lakeland, Fla.

The Loula Evans Jones Endowed Scholarship Fund, given by Col. R. O. Jones of Newnan in memory of his wife, furnished help for Evelyn Earle and Molly Brown both of Newnan.

The Hinman Endowed Scholarship Fund, bequeathed to Wesleyan by the late Florence (Hand) Hinman of class of '95, provided scholarships for the following: Mary Jo Mixon, Columbus, Ga.; Jane Morris, Belle Glade, Fla.; Jean O'Keefe, Walterboro, S. C.; Madeline O'Rourke, Ormond Beach, Fla.; Joan Owens, Jacksonville, Fla.; Susan Perry, Miami, Fla.; Bee Seckinger, Maitland, Fla.; Jo Ann Shackleford, Alpharetta, Ga.; Danette Smith, Ludowici, Ga.; Linda Warnock, Savannah, Ga.

The Hinkle Endowed Scholarship Fund bequeathed to Wesleyan by the late Eugene Hinkle of Conn., in memory of his mother, Laura Ellen (Butts) Hinkle, provided scholarships for the following: Roberta Owen, Greenville, S. C.; Mary Laslie, Attapulugus; Jean Adams, Americus; Mary Ann Beightol, Rome; Mary Benedict, East Palatka, Fla.; Barbara Ketterbaugh, New Canaan, Conn.; Huberta Dodd, Forsyth; Mary Elizabeth Cross, Warner Robins; Jean Livingston, Quincy, Fla.; Ann Covington, Conway, S. C.

The General Alumnae Loyalty Fund, the total of many gifts from many alumnae, provided scholarships for: Roberta Owen, Greenville, S. C.; Linda Warnock, Savannah; Betty Brender, Macon; Joan Shapiro, No. Miami, Fla.; Gloria Barwick, Hollywood, Fla.; Rachel Meaders, Greenville, S. C.; Mary Cooper, Macon; Helen Stowers, Atlanta; Ann Shearouse, Adel; Elizabeth Hodgins, Daytona Beach, Fla. Jane Howard, Hollywood, Fla.; Nancy Howard, Hollywood, Fla.; Carole Kelley, Ft. Wesleyan's September Monkey

as told by Nonie (Acree) Quillian, '09

WHEN one comes into the world a disappointment to father and mother and from that hour spends almost a lifetime jumping hurdles and overcoming difficulties until she finally finds herself at her Alma Mater autographing her recently published book, it's time for the curious and interested to take a look between the pages and find out what it's all about.

The ultimate reaction of the father of Induk Pahk to her being a girl and not the boy he had wanted was favorable; "Well, she's better than nothing," he said, "the main question is whether or not she will live." Her father died early but a mother robust in character and later embracing Christianity which lifted her above the pitfalls of fear and superstition nourished her child in this new and fertile soil. Since there was no provision for a girl to be educated in Korea, Induk's mother disguised her as a boy for several years until she heard of a distant Mission school where her little girl could have her rightful heritage.

This is just the beginning of the apparently impossible barriers that have ever been in her path to overcome if she was to reach the goal for her life. Hunger, imprisonment, war and every imaginable hardship has never deterred her. When she told her mother after much delay that she had decided to cut loose from Oriental tradition and leave her home to come to America to complete her education, her mother said, "Well now that you have made up your mind to jump I hope you will jump high and far." Induk answered I am going to jump a long way, all the way across the Pacific to Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga.

Perhaps the most revealing statement in her book, "September Monkey," is this, "I do not have any trouble with difficulties but difficulties have trouble with me when I keep God first in my life." In the foreword she gives as one object in writing this book "to witness to what can happen in a life when the power of God grips a heart."

"September Monkey" came off the press in September, 1954, published by Harper Bros., and in three weeks the first edition of five thousand was sold out. This is a fascinating story of a remarkable personality so coordinated physically, mentally and spiritually that the heavy and prolonged schedule of lecturing and travel, covering over 600,000 miles, is taken with ease and enthusiasm. To go from America to Europe is to her a simple act and if in Europe why not go farther into Africa and India? It's all in what she accepts as God's plan for her life. Being of a rare and sparkling personality she captivates her audience and leaves them inspired and activated to higher living. She was on "The Voice of America" for a year or more.

In 1948 Induk was invited to give the Alumnae Day address at Commencement at which time she was awarded the Alumnae Distinguished Achievement Award. One is never surprised when she comes up with another achievement. So in 1949 when she was on her way across the continent to take up her passage to return to Korea, being turned back because of the declaration of war, she decided to give this waiting period to writing her book as well as to continuing her lectures.

As soon as "September Monkey" was off the press, she was invited by the Alumnae Association to come to Wesleyan for a book review-autograph party on November 17, 1954. She spent the day on the campus speaking at Chapel in the morning, swaying her audience as she dramatically and feelingly told of her country's war experiences with Japan, Russia and Communist China. Into this was woven some of her own personal experiences during these tragic years.

In the afternoon friends from Macon and Wesleyan gathered to hear Dr. Delvin Covey, Professor of Journalism, review the book. This was done with a delightful sense of an understanding of her vibrant personality. Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, National Alumnae President, presided. This was followed by a social hour and the autographing of "September Monkey" by the author, with Roberta (Jones) Gardner, '28, a classmate of Induk, as chairman of the party and other members of the class serving as hostesses.

The Editor apologizes to Induk for not using the interesting group picture made at Wesleyan while she autographed copies of her book, however, the photographer has lost the original negative. In the group with her were Dr. and Mrs. Quillian, Dr. Covey, and her classmates at the tea. This picture of Induk Pahk was taken several years ago.

Since Dr. Quillian was the President of Wesleyan when Induk entered College as a junior in 1926, we have followed every year of her moving and adventurous career with satisfaction and appreciation. So we drove down to Macon on the 17th to meet her and brought her back to Atlanta for another book review-autograph party the next day. This party was sponsored by the Atlanta Alumnae Club and Helen (Rose) Soul, '25, was our charming hostess at the Highland Branch Public Library where she is Librarian. The book review was given by Virginia McJenkins, '27, Supervisor of the Fulton County Library System, who has achieved national recognition in her field of education. Virginia is also a college mate of Induk, and with her usual charm gave a delightful and inspiring interpretation of the book and its author. After the autographing of all the books, about twenty of Induk's friends gathered for a social hour at our apartment in the Briarcliff Hotel.

The next morning we said goodbye again to our Wesleyan daughter as she left by train for engagements in Tucson, Arizona, and California.

To know the charm and inspiration of this book one should read it. In it she tells why she called it "September Monkey." All royalties from the book are dedicated to "Little Berea in Korea," the school she hopes to open and pattern after Berea College in Kentucky. This will replace her former school, Ewha Institute, which was destroyed by the war.

Gifts to the Library

Katharine P. Carnes, librarian, reports these latest gifts to the library.

Ruth (Kasey) Yost, '28, sent $100.00 for the librarian's discretionary fund. Ruth's daughter, Ritchey, graduated in June 1954.

A copy of Each One Teach One by Marjorie Medary was placed in the library by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mathews of Macon in memory of Bessie (Fox) Beggs, A.B. 1893, who died in June, 1954.

Essie (Skellie) McCook, 1905, has given a copy of Richard Pratt's Second Treasury of American Homes as a memorial to her daughter, Virginia McCook, 1935.

Induk Pahk, '28, on her visit to Wesleyan in November, 1954, presented the library an autographed copy of her first book, September Monkey.

Jan Gay, '53, fresh from her traveling scholarship in France, gave the library a copy of the Little Prince published in Paris.

Wesleyan Students Practice Teach

by Ernestine Bledsoe, '33

UNTIL a few years ago many alumnae of Wesleyan and other educational institutions felt there was one thing lacking in their preparation to be school teachers. We agree with Louise (Wadsworth) Jeffcoat, '39. In her letter to Dr. Gin, published in the November issue, she expressed the futile feeling of the beginning teacher who knows "scads of principles of education and the past educators and their theories" but does not know how to teach. Graduates of Wesleyan in the past have been through a program of education that got them ready to be teachers, but stopped short of helping them to know how to reach the boys and girls in their classroom.

Now through its enlarged education program Wesleyan provides the student teaching experience for those students planning to teach in either elementary or high school. This program has been in effect for several years.

This experience gives the student of education an opportunity to do teaching in a public school under the supervision of a qualified teacher, known as the supervising teacher. The student teacher has a gradual introduction into teaching. She is given increasing responsibility by the supervising teacher as she seems ready to assume it.

The student teaching experience is provided for students majoring in music education, in art education, and in physical education as well as for those preparing to be regular elementary or high school "subject matter" teachers. Generally the pattern of experiences for these "special" teachers is similar to that for teachers of other subjects. They do spend less time observing and more time experimenting and practicing.

This year 27 seniors participated in the program. And this year for the first time some of the students left Macon and the Bibb County System to do their teaching. Nine girls went to Newnan and seven to Savannah.

Many favorable reports have come to us from these schools. Maryella Camp of Newnan, a supervising teacher and a Wesleyan alumna, wrote the following letter to the Alumnae Office:

"When I was at Wesleyan, we used to sing something about 'our bones gonna rise again.' I can't remember what we meant then; but, since the nine attractive Wesleyan girls have come into our midst, my old bones have risen! I'm so proud to be shown again by these girls that there is something very special which sets Wesleyan girls apart.

"I am fortunate enough to have a Wesleyanne as my co-worker in junior and senior English, but I can speak for all the teachers, I believe, in saying we don't know what we will do when they are gone.

"Somehow I never had any misgivings about having a Wesleyan girl work with me, but now I do—I'm afraid the children will love her better than me and the superintendent might give her my job.

"I surely do hope that you all have nine more who want to practice teach in the spring or next fall in Newnan. I wanted you to record it in the Wesleyan Alumnae that these nine girls in Newnan have made a place for themselves in our community.

"I am really thrilled to know that Wesleyan has this new phase of training. I wish that I had had it."

This letter illustrates the general feeling of the school people—superintendents, principals, and teachers—who were associated with the Wesleyan student teachers. They expressed these feelings to the Wesleyan teachers on our periodic visits to the schools.

An article in the Savannah Evening Press on October 16, featuring Wesleyan students at work in the schools, began with this statement: "Pupils in the Savannah schools are benefiting from the latest teaching methods while seven seniors from Wesleyan College are benefiting from the chance to do actual teaching before they have jobs."

For all these students the student teaching experience is an integral part of their education program. Usually student teaching comes the first nine weeks of the senior year. The college teachers visit and work with the student teachers and their supervising teachers periodically.

EDITOR'S NOTE. Ernestine Bledsoe, our own alumna A.B. '33 and a new member of Wesleyan faculty as Associate Professor of Education and Psychology, at our insistence wrote this article during Christmas holidays. Ernestine received her Masters in Education at University of Georgia and her Ed.D. at Columbia University. She works with Lee Stoner, head of Education Department.

For the seven years prior to coming to Wesleyan, she was with the College of Education, University of Georgia.

cally. They have conferences with the student teachers and their supervising teachers jointly and separately, hold seminars for all the students to discuss common problems each encountered, and plan with the student ways in which she can increase her competencies as a teacher. At the end of the student teaching experience the student returns to the campus. She then has a concentrated seminar in education and the opportunity to take other courses for which she feels a need.

This experience is proving valuable both to the future teachers and to the cooperating public schools. Those of us who graduated from Wesleyan before this practical experience was provided realize how much it will mean to the girls who have it. The experience enables the Wesleyan graduate to receive the professional teachers certificate in Georgia and in most other states.

District III AAC Conference Held In Atlanta

The alumni officials at Georgia Tech, Agnes Scott, and Emory were hosts to the annual meeting of the American Alumni Council, District III, at the Georgian Terrace Hotel, Atlanta, January 9-11.

Malene (Lee) Morgan, alumnae secretary, attended the entire program beginning with a tour Sunday afternoon of the Alumni offices at the three sponsoring universities. Monday afternoon she was given a private conference with Mr. Corbin Gwaltney, editor of the Johns Hopkins Magazine and national director for magazines of the American Alumni Council.

Bosch Painting Unveiled

Gerhard Bosch, who holds the Catherine L. Comer Professorship of painting and drawing at Wesleyan College, painted the life-size portrait of the late Brig. Gen. Augustine Warner Robins which was unveiled in the City Hall at Warner Robins January 23, 1955.

Proper ceremonies were held honoring the General for whom this city was named. When the painting was unveiled, the General's widow immediately remarked that it was absolutely life-like.

National Alumnae President Phi Delta Phi Day Speaker

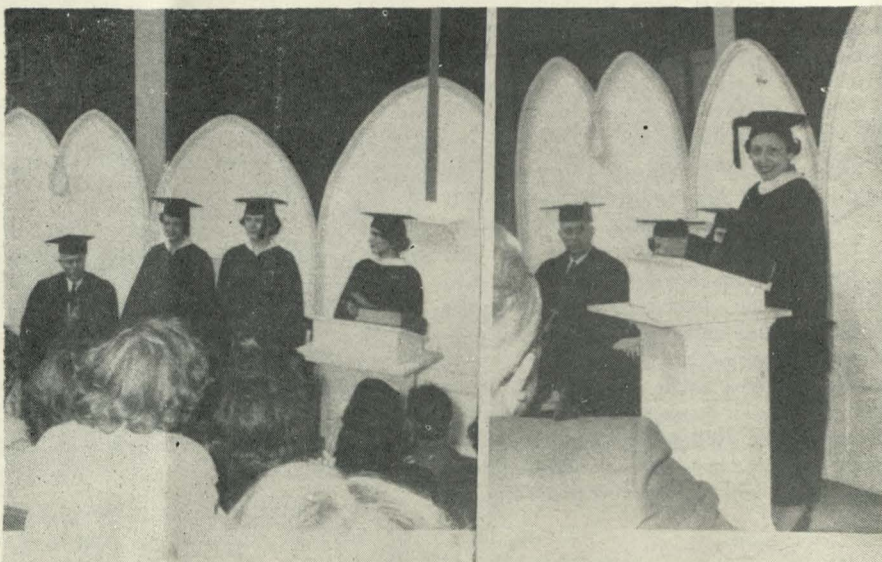

The Phi Delta Phi Honor Society, founded at Wesleyan in 1924, brought to the students another one of their own members, Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, A.B. 1926, as speaker on Phi Delta Phi Day, December 6, at the chapel hour.

In her third year as president of the National Wesleyan Alumnae Association and past president of Phi Delta Phi Honor Society, the speaker shared her recent world tour with the audience, using as her subject, "The World and You." She was introduced by Emmie (Carlton) Johnson, A.B. 1949, president of the Honor Society.

Freda has been an active and faithful alumna of Wesleyan; has continued to use her delightful gift for writing; and since coming back to Macon in 1945 with her husband, has constantly served her Alma Mater and her community.

The two seniors inducted into the Society that day were Elizabeth Wilson, Keysville, Va., a history major who finished her practice teaching at Lanier Senior High School; and Harriette Strippling, Newnan, a chemistry major and a senior superlative.

1954 Homecoming

Although heavy rain kept the 1954 alumnae from writing their banquet song in the Alumnae Office and caused the soccer finals to be postponed, still excitement and gaiety were rampant on the campus as the newest alumnae jammed the dormitory rooms, prepared for the informal dance Friday night and Thanksgiving banquet Saturday and dressed for the formal ball Saturday night.

The theme for this year's banquet was The Rainbow with the Golden Heart seniors representing the pot of gold at the rainbow's end.

The gym was transformed Saturday by decorations of pink and blue, gold and silver, and a Stairway to the Stars for the Queen and her court.

Some of the alumnae returning for Homecoming were Ann Aiken, June Cason, Doris Chitwood, Mary Ann Coggin, Carole Coleman, Emily Cook, Donnie

Washington, D. C. Club Joins Associated Alumnae Clubs In Capitol

by Isabella Harris, '26

Marked by a feeling of comradeship and of pride in the Oldest and Best was the first luncheon meeting of the year, held on Saturday, October 30, by the alumnae of Washington, D. C. Although because of unavoidable difficulties and conflicting engagements only eleven guests were present against an ordinary total of twenty-five or thirty at each meeting, the people who were there thought it a delightful occasion. "I'm sorry for the ones who couldn't come," remarked one member as she left, "for they missed a wonderful time."

Honor guests at the luncheon were Elizabeth Winn, registrar of Wesleyan, and Frances Strohecker, secretary of Dr. B. Joseph Martin, both of whom had come up for College Night on November 1. At the end of the meal they answered questions about the college and the campus. The whole question-and-answer period, full of enthusiasm, resembled a large dinner party at a reunion.

Presiding over the luncheon was the newly elected president of the club, Eloise (Walker) English. Other members present in addition to the two honor guests were Charlie Pinkston, Floy Klein Beddie (a Wesleyan daughter by reason of having taught on the campus), Leona (Letson) Wiley, Carol Arnold, Carrie L. Allgood, Mary (Thornton) McLellan, Dot (DuPuis) Mackin, and Isabella Harris.

Discount booklets were distributed during the luncheon and sent to other members as a means of raising money for the Alumnae Scholarship Fund. An Associated Alumnae Scholarship project now in its fourth year, the method has proved an effective means of increasing the scholarship funds of individual clubs.

This is the first year that Wesleyan has been represented in the annual College Night observed in Washington for the last ten years by the Associated Alumnae Clubs, an organization restricted to alumnae clubs of women's colleges or to sections of coeducational colleges functioning as separate units, such as Barnard College of Columbia. Wesleyan was one of eleven new groups admitted this year.

In observance of the annual College Night program, which is a concerted effort to put information about outstanding women's colleges before the girls of the Greater Washington area, Elizabeth Winn and Frances Strohecker on the night of November 1 sat at a table along with forty-four other groups in the corridors of Western High School and answered questions about the college. Preceding the information period was a dinner in the cafeteria for college representatives, local high school counselors, and scholarship chairmen of the various groups, also a speech in the auditorium by Norman J. Nelson, first assistant superintendent in charge of high schools in the District of Columbia.

Elizabeth reports good attendance at her table. Many of the girls were attracted to the name of the college by the fact that their mothers or grandmothers had attended Wesleyan.

Atlanta Group VII Alumnae Meeting

by Suzanne McCowen, '52

A large attendance from Atlanta's Group VII Alumnae Club enjoyed a special treat at their November dinner meeting held at Mammy's Shanty.

Their guest was Mrs. Gulnar Bosch, head of Wesleyan's Art Department, who is admired and loved by both students and alumnae alike. For some, it was an opportunity to renew old friendships with one of their favorite college professors. For all, it was an occasion to enjoy her discussion of art as a means of expression and enrichment of life. "Introducing children to Art" was also a topic discussed for the benefit of the young mothers and teachers present.

Margie Perkins, '51, retiring president, concluded the meeting by announcing the new officers for the coming year. They are: President, Suzanne McCowen, '52; Vice-President, Jean (Armstrong) Smith, '52; Secretary, Julie (Withers) Roland, '53; Treasurer, Chris (Flake) Thomas, '52.

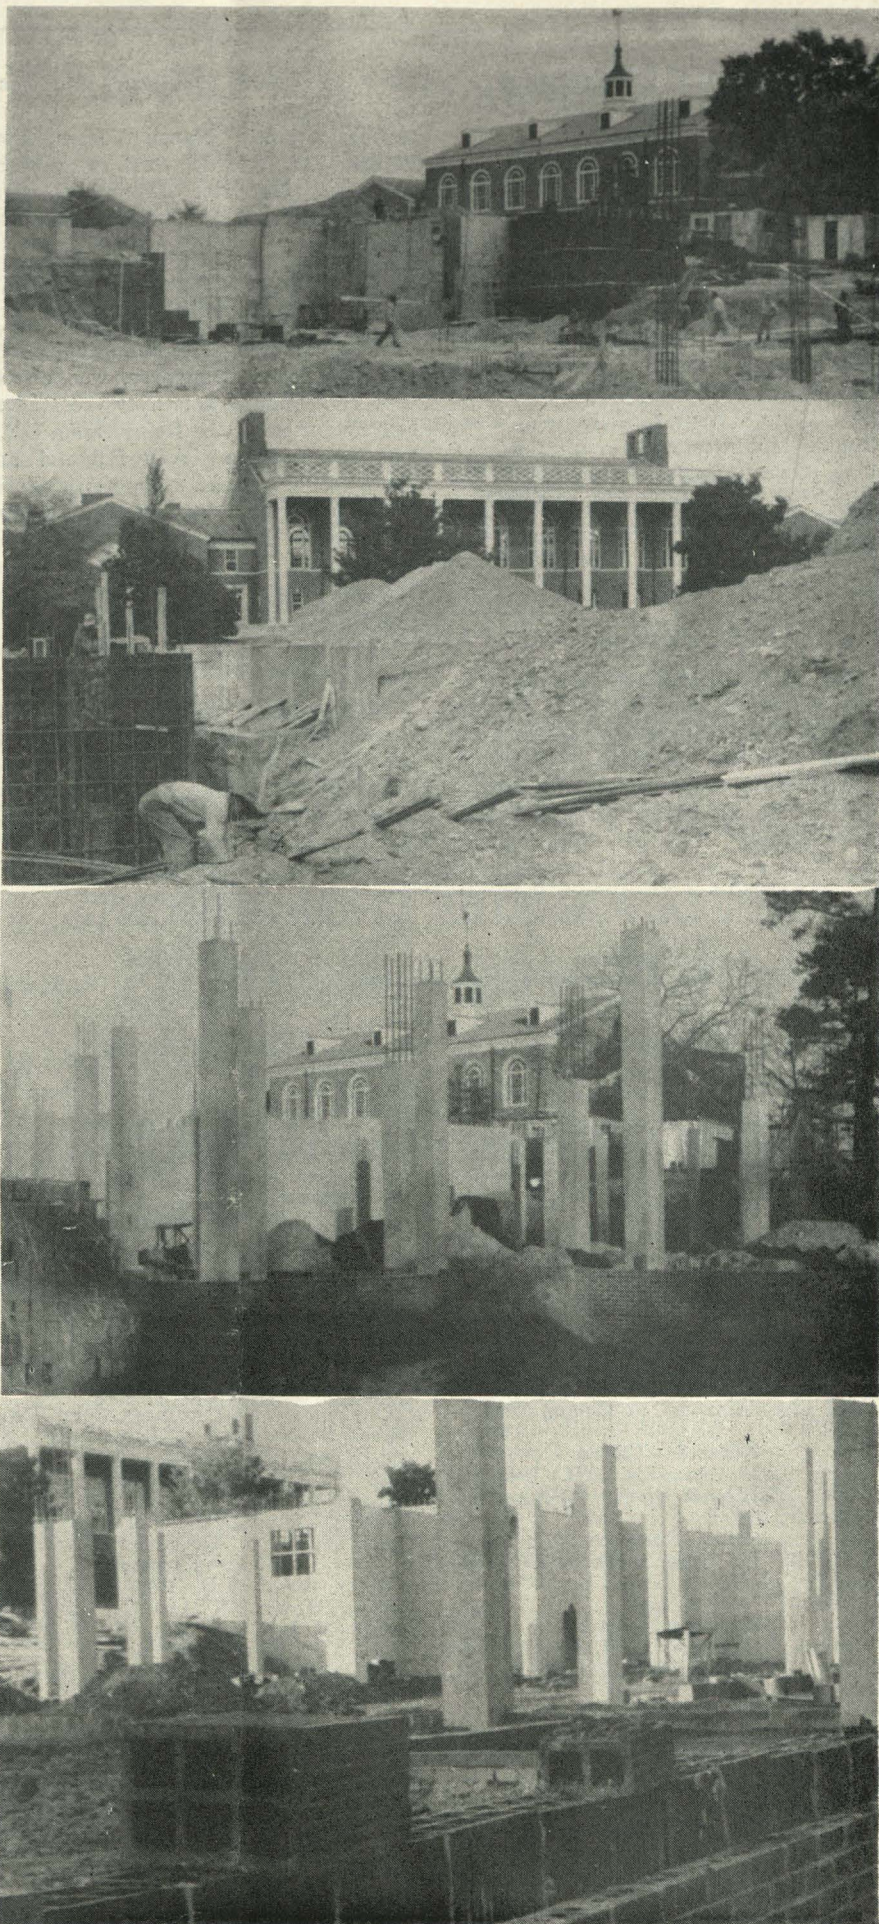

Alumnae Club In San Antonio, Texas Working for Wesleyan

For the second straight year the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of San Antonio, Texas, has entertained the high school seniors and their mothers at the home of Inez (Ward) Wright, '32, with Dr. Martin as special guest speaker. This affair was a morning coffee on December 29, with Maidee (Smith) Ray, '33, as chairman assisted by Katherine (Hudson) Herrington '33 and Lillian (Mann) Jauquet, '41. Dr. Martin talked about Wesleyan and narrated colored slides of the campus and student activities.

While the Martins were house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wright, and the men were deer hunting, the Wesleyan alumnae entertained Mrs. Martin with luncheons, teas, and dinners. Evelyn (Moore) Means, '37, had a tea for Mrs. Martin at her home on December 29. Fortunately, both the Phi Mu and A.D.Pi Fraternities had teas during their stay and Mrs. Martin enjoyed both.

Lillian (Mann) Jauquet, '41, president of the Club, had the Martins for dinner one night. Lillian reports the Club meets once a month and that they have a wonderful time together. Mrs. Martin was also entertained by Miriam (Rudesal) Smith, '42, and at that luncheon was introduced to Mexican food.

CRADLE ROLL

Tomorrow's Alumnae . . . a column about Wesleyan's Students

Nine Wesleyan College seniors were elected to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges by student vote, membership being based on scholarship, leadership, character and potentiality for future usefulness.

These nine are Phyllis Clough, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Lucille Fossum, Miami, Fla.; Carolyn Gleaton, Columbia, S. C.; Neva Jane Langley, Lakeland, Fla.; Frances Moulthrop, Eufaula, Ala.; Roberta (Owen) Taylor, Greenville, S. C.; Joyce Reddick, Bainbridge; Elizabeth Truitt, Madison; and Elizabeth Wilson, Keysville, Va.

Superlatives

The senior class elected 10 of its members as Senior Superlatives to be featured in the 1955 Vetropt. They are Carole Broadwell, Atlanta; Sally Fambrough, Bainbridge; Gayle (Attaway) Findlay, Macon; Joann Garratt, Macon; Jane McCain, Starkville, Miss.; Sarah McGee, Atlanta; Nancy Norton, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Gerda Paul, Frankfurt, Germany; Harriette (Stripling) Graham, Newnan; Betty Upchurch, Raeford, N. C.

Homecoming Queen

Class Notes

The many alumnae who knew Ida (Frazer) Turrentine and the many friends who helped her celebrate her 100th birthday on December 8 will regret to learn of her death just two weeks later. For her birthday party held at the home of her daughter in Seffner, Fla., greetings were sent by the Alumnae Association and by Dr. Martin to Wesleyan's then oldest living graduate and oldest living member of the A.D.Pi Sorority.
